

When Mary Kay Ash started her company in 1963, she took a bumblebee as one of her symbols. According to scientists, bumblebees should not be able to fly! Their wing span is not nearly big enough to support their bodies. However, bumblebees don't know this, so they go against aerodynamic principles and fly anyway! Mary Kay said that women are like that, too. She was told that her business would never work! Women are told they can't do certain jobs and especially couldn't run their own business. Women don't know that, they just do it anyway! Just like the bumblebee!
