

How Bad Do You Really Want to Succeed in Life?

*Question: How bad do you really want to succeed in life?
Think about it... How bad? A little? A lot?*

*Another question: Are you willing to fight for it?
Are you willing to go the distance like you never have before, and bring out that fight in you that has been beaten down for so long?
Do you realize that the only fight you have with success is yourself? That's it.*

Remember this – ALL defeat comes from within.
Period. No exceptions.

The only person who can stop you from becoming successful is YOU. YOU FIGHT YOU all day long with untruths about yourself that attract failure and mediocrity like a magnet on steroids.

The words you say, the thoughts you think. The words others say and you believe – your past which you cling to – and the excuses you have embraced. But yet you want more out of life.

You know what FIGHT stands for? Forcing Inside Garbage <to> Honor Truth. The truth about what your Creator wants in your life. The truth about the greatness inside of you and the Fight that is starving to pummel mediocrity and failure to smithereens – it's there, you know it is – it's just dormant.

Increase the size of the fight in you and face the truth about yourself. There is a bigger YOU inside that can create a destiny and future that's staggering if you let it.

Let the Fighting Spirit in you refuse to give up or be denied.

He did.

He came home, slammed his books down on the table, ran to her side, broke down and cried. It was his 10th grade year. His mother said, "Son... what's wrong?" Through his 15 year-old broken heart he said, "I got cut. I didn't make the team. They said I was too small."

With incredible wisdom, his mother said, "Son, it's not the size of the person in the game. It's the size of the game in the person." And she left.

The next morning it started. He got up at 4:30 am and started practicing; every morning, every evening, every day, every week, every month. Relentless, non-stop. His FIGHT had ignited. He would not be denied. Through the snow, rain, sleet, ice, wind and hail he kept practicing. He gave up the movies and the ordinary things that he had done before. The fight bigger and bigger!

And he kept saying, "It's not the size of the player in the game, it's the size of the game in the player." Over and over and over.

And then it came around again. The season. He tried out with a focus so strong that it intimidated even the coach. His fight was at peak force. And he wanted to explode the fight in him so that no one dared to stop him this time.

His name? Michael Jordan.

What's the size of your game?

To reiterate: The only person who can stop you from becoming successful is YOU.

YOU FIGHT YOU all day long with untruths about yourself that attract failure and mediocrity! Face the truth about yourself. Do it today and never let it go. This is your life, live your dream!
